"Freedom is never more than one generation away from extinction. We didn't pass it to our children in the bloodstream. It must be fought for, protected, and handed on for them to do the same, or one day we will spend our sunset years telling our children and our children's children what it was once like in the United States where men were free."

Religious freedom is more than a freedom to worship. Religious practice might manifest itself in a number of ways—prayer, church services, and display of religious icons or symbols such as the crucifix. But participation is expressing an underlying belief, not the belief itself. Religious belief exists beyond Sunday morning, and so should the ...
